Applications are invited for a 5-year temporary or permanent post of a Lecturer /Assistant Professor above the bar within UCD School of Business/Management. University College Dublin invites applications for the post of Lecturer/Assistant Professor in the Management Subject Area of the UCD College of Business with a focus on Operations Management. This post may be permanent or of five years duration. To be considered for a permanent post, the candidate is required to have a minimum of three years prior experience at Assistant Professor level within a research-intensive university.

The College of Business at UCD is a dynamic, research-intensive, business school located in the vibrant European capital of Dublin. It comprises the Lochlann Quinn School of Business ('the Quinn School'), the Michael Smurfit Graduate Business School ('the Smurfit School'), the Business International Campus ('IBC') and Smurfit Executive Development ('Executive Development'). The Quinn School and IBC are located on the main campus at Belfield while the Smurfit School and Executive Development are located on the Blackrock campus about five kilometres away. IBC also has a significant overseas presence in Singapore, Hong Kong, and Sri Lanka.

Consistently ranked amongst the leading business schools in the world, the College of Business is currently ranked 28th in the Financial Times European Business Schools rankings. It is the only Irish member of the Global Alliance in Management Education (CEMS) and the Global Network for Advanced Management (GNAM), and also holds the triple crown of accreditation from AACSB (US), EQUIS (Europe) and AMBA (UK). We have recently completed a strategic planning process which sets out an exciting agenda for the College in years ahead across research and innovation, teaching and learning, and meaningful societal engagement. We are looking for energetic faculty colleagues who will have real impact across each of these dimensions.

Our new strategy (2022-2026) titled, ‘Creating a Better Future Together’, draws strongly on our commitment to ‘empower, connect and create’, and is underpinned by our ambition to make a difference, to create future opportunity for our students and other stakeholders, and through excellence in our research and educational activities, to have a meaningful, sustainable, positive, impact on business and society. Our strategy is also underpinned by a commitment to creativity, integrity, community, inclusiveness, and respect for diversity.

About the position:

The successful candidate will have the opportunity to join and contribute to a vibrant community of leading researchers and educators and will be expected to provide leadership in the following areas:

Research: The College places a strong emphasis on research leading to publication in highly esteemed, international, peer-reviewed academic journals and leading debate in the academic and public space. The candidate should have established a track record of research in Operations Management leading to publications in highly esteemed, international, peer-evaluated journals. Interdisciplinary research is also welcome.
