The Darden School of Business at the University of Virginia invites applications for up to two faculty positions in the Technology and Operations Management area beginning in the fall of 2023. The position(s) may be filled at the Assistant, Associate or Full Professor level. Strong preference will be given to candidates with at least 3 years of faculty experience. Applicants should have a PhD (or be near completion), in a field related to Technology and Operations Management. Candidates for a position as Assistant Professor must show potential for excellence in research, outstanding teaching and course development skills, and an interest in practitioners and managerial problems. Applicants for more senior appointments must have an outstanding record of research productivity and impact, as well as a record of successful teaching and course development.

The Darden School of Business offers MBA and executive education programs with a global reach that consistently rank among the best in the world. The University of Virginia is regarded as one of the nation's finest public universities and Charlottesville is consistently ranked among the best places to live in the United States. In addition, Darden has recently opened a new state-of-the-art campus in the Washington D.C. area, providing additional global access for our research and teaching.

Darden is an organization with a strong culture that reflects a commitment to our mission and values. Candidates who are invited for personal interviews will be asked to describe how they could help foster a learning environment that inspires and engages a diverse audience. The Darden School of Business has a longstanding aim of being a diverse, equitable and inclusive business school. (Read the University of Virginia’s Commitment to Diversity Statement and Darden’s actions).

Review of applications will begin on October 16, 2022, and the position will remain open until filled. For more information about the Darden School and the University of Virginia, see http://www.darden.virginia.edu/.
