

Missouri State's Marketing Department is currently seeking applicants with either a master's or doctoral degree to support our Supply Chain Management program.

Missouri State University Marketing Department is hiring a full-time, 9-month Clinical Assistant Professor (non-tenure track) in Supply Chain Management. Required qualifications and application instructions to apply for the Clinical Assistant Professor position can be found at <https://jobs.missouristate.edu/postings/82805>. If you or other supply chain professionals you know have the requisite master's degree, graduate coursework, and 7+ years of professional supply chain management experience, we encourage you to explore this opportunity.

This position is also listed at the Assistant Professor level (9-month tenure-track) for those who have the requisite doctoral degree. Required qualifications and application instructions to apply for the Assistant Professor position can be found at <https://jobs.missouristate.edu/postings/82716>.

The start date for both positions will be August 1, 2026.

These positions will remain open until filled. Applicants are encouraged to apply as soon as possible for immediate consideration.

Qualifications vary by position, and applicants should apply to the appropriate level. Only one position will be filled.
